

PITTIABLE JOURNALISM.

The hoodlums and bosses who have looted the State of California for several years past are now fleeing the country by the Canadian route, leaving their hired organs, the Chronicle and Post, to shriek against the legality of the Grand Jury.

The newspapers which defend crime, present to the public eye a spectacle more pitiable than the fleeing rascals whose tracks they are trying to cover.

These papers are wealthy enough to afford to be honest.

They were never seen objecting to any of the grand juries who were the creatures of Buckley's juggleries.

The instant a jury is drawn that really begins to investigate crime these organs howl so lustily that it looks as if they themselves expected to get harrowed by the teeth of the fine tooth comb now being drawn over political rascality in California.

How cheap those California judges must feel who had to crawl on all fours up Buckley's back steps before they could get their nominations or elections.

Throwing Fruit Away.

Hon. H. F. Dangberg recently visited San Francisco and endeavored to dispose of his large crop of apples. He found the market glutted and says that apples are being dumped into the bay. Twelve tons of pears were also thrown into the bay. Mr. Dangberg is making cider of his apples, and it is said he will have the cider on exhibition at the pavilion in Carson for visitors to sample. The cider is made from fine apples and has a delicious flavor.—Courier.

It serves Dangberg right. He should have made cider of his apples in the first place. A farmer should not stop merely in growing things. He should manufacture more cider instead of consuming Kentucky whisky.

An Ordinary D--n Fool.

Some one, either a practical joker or a lunatic, has printed Rudyard Kipling's splendid "Ballad of the East and West," on a leaflet and credited it to the editor of this paper. If a practical joker, he ought to quit the habit before it takes possession of his mind to the exclusion of other faculties. If a lunatic, he is the sort of a one that Jim Townsend tells of.

One day Jim called at the asylum and thought it would be a good joke to pretend that he was insane. He did so for a while until one of the regular lunatics caught him by the arm and remarked: "You ain't a lunatic, you are just an ordinary d--n fool."

Eyes Open.

The delegation of toughs and all round mugs have struck us and will be watched carefully by the officials, three extra night watchmen having been put on. They have a special dodge of requesting change for a gold piece, claiming a mistake when the cash is handed over, and in the argument try to make people think that another half dollar is coming to them. Their game is run on a bulldoze basis and it might be a good thing to handle them the same way.

Don't leave your houses unprotected, a few burglars are in the mob.

An Irrigation Convention.

The Reno Gazette says a petition is being circulated and extensively signed asking the Governor to call an irrigation convention in this State and appoint delegates thereto at an early date. This movement was started at the suggestion of the Salt Lake Irrigation Convention recently held in that city. It is a most excellent move and should be encouraged by everybody who has the interest of the State at heart.
